This summary sets forth general principles in effect in January 2025, that are expected to apply to employees (i) who are, and shall remain until disposal of their investment, working and resident in Finland for the purposes of the tax laws of Finland and the Convention between the Republic of Finland and the Kingdom of the Netherlands for the avoidance of double taxation dated 28 December 1995, as amended (the "Treaty"), (ii) who are and shall remain until disposal of their investment entitled to the benefits of the Treaty, (iii) who have an employment contract with a company controlled by Airbus, and (iv) who are subject to the social security scheme of Finland. However, the general principles may not apply in all specific cases. The tax consequences listed below are described in accordance with the Treaty, Finnish and certain Dutch tax laws and practices, all of which are applicable in January 2025. These principles, laws, and the Treaty may change over time even with retroactive effect and thus affect the personal income tax and/or social security treatment described below.

This summary is given for informational purposes only and should not be relied upon as being either complete or conclusive. This scheme is an illustration only and is not intended to predict the market value of the Airbus Share in the future.

IMPORTANT

Share price evolution on the stock market is unpredictable. When making your decision please remember that the price of Airbus shares can go up or down. Airbus cannot provide you with any financial/tax advice. If you are in any doubt about whether to participate in the ESOP 2025 you should speak to an independent financial/tax advisor.

1. Taxation at the time of acquisition of Airbus shares

In the ESOP 2025, you select a Package which allows you to acquire a number of Airbus shares at a discounted price compared to the Reference Price. The discount is the combination of a number of Airbus shares paid at Reference Price (Acquisition Shares) and additional Airbus shares (Matching Shares) allocated for free.

➤ Taxation of your Acquisition Shares

The benefit due to a right based on an employment relationship to acquire shares of the company below fair market value is taxable at the time of acquisition as earned income taxed at progressive rates of up to approximately 55% (in 2025). However, acquisition discount is tax exempt for the part which does not exceed 10% of the fair market value of the shares provided that the right has been made available for the majority of the employees on a company or group level.

For the purposes of this rule, the "discount" is the difference between the fair market value of the Airbus shares and the purchase price of the shares.

The fair market value of Airbus shares for tax purposes is the average price of shares of the calendar month previous to the company's decision to offer shares to employees (i.e., average of share prices on the period from January 1st to January 31st, 2025, considering the Board decision launching the plan on February 19th, 2025).

Please note that the fair market value for Finnish tax purposes is different from the stock market price upon acquisition.

If the purchase price reveals to be less than the fair market value of Airbus share as determined above, any discount in excess of the maximum 10% discount from such fair market value is taxable as earned income at progressive rates of up to approximately 55% (in 2025) and subject to the employee's health care payment (1.45% in 2025). To the extent that tax prepayment withheld by the employer in accordance with your tax card would not suffice for the payment of your taxes for the tax year in question (including tax payable on benefit from investment), you shall take care of payment of any outstanding tax yourself. The employee's health care payment is included in the withholding percentage stated on your tax card.

➤ Taxation of the Matching Shares

Same approach as described above should apply with respect to Matching Shares. For the Matching Shares, the purchase price of the shares corresponds to zero. The 10 % tax exempt discount should also be applicable.

The fair market value (determined as specified above) reduced by a 10% discount should be taxable in the same manner as the purchase price discount.

All implications regarding tax and health care payment should be determined as described above.

You will be responsible to check that the benefit and the number of Airbus shares have been included correctly on your annual tax return form. Any changes to this information shall be filed usually in April following the year of the allocation of the shares.

- Additionally, if you opted for payment of your purchase price in 3 instalments, you benefit from a facility offered by your employer

Due to this interest-free loan, the difference between (i) the 12 months' Euribor interest rate (on January 1st, 2025) and (ii) the actual rate (i.e. zero) will be taxed as earned income at progressive income tax rates of up to approximately 55% (in year 2025) added with the employee's health care payment. The interest benefit is taxed when you receive it. Applicable taxes, if any, will be withheld by your employer.

2. Taxation during the holding of your Airbus shares

You are required to hold your shares for a period of at least three years. As long as you will continue to hold your Airbus shares, you will be taxed with respect to dividends if any are distributed by Airbus SE.

Dividends will be subject to a dividend withholding tax in the Netherlands and will then be taxable in your country.

a. Taxation of dividends in the Netherlands

Under Dutch domestic law, dividends paid by Airbus will be subject to a withholding tax in the Netherlands at the time the dividend is declared by the general meeting of shareholders. The rate of the Dutch dividend withholding tax is 15%.

A supporting document (Tax Voucher) evidencing the payment of Dutch withholding tax is made available each year on SHARINBOX –Société Générale website.

b. Taxation of dividends in Finland

Under Finnish tax laws, 85% of the dividend paid by listed companies is taxable as capital income, at 30% tax rate up to taxable capital income of EUR 30,000 and 34% tax rate on the excess (in 2025). 15% of the dividend is tax-exempt.

The applicable taxes are not withheld by the employer. No social security charges are payable on dividends.

You must declare the dividend income and claim credit for Dutch withholding tax on your annual tax return to be filed usually in April following the year when the dividend income was received or made available to you. You must also declare your share ownership in your tax return.

3. Taxation at sale of your Airbus shares

You will not be able to sell or transfer the shares acquired in the ESOP 2025 for a period of three years. In practice, you will be able to sell your shares from April 3, 2028. End of the holding period is not a taxable event.

Any gain upon sale of the Airbus shares shall be taxed as capital income (at a rate of 30% for capital income of up to EUR 30,000 and 34% for capital income exceeding EUR 30,000 per year, in 2025) for you in the tax year of the sale. Any gain or loss is calculated as the sales proceeds less the actual acquisition cost (in this case the purchase price paid by you and the amount that has been taxed as your earned income at the time of acquisition) and the selling expenses. It should be noted that the 10% tax-exempt part of the acquisition discount is not included in the acquisition cost.

Alternatively, in lieu of applying the actual acquisition costs, you may choose to apply a presumptive acquisition cost equal to 20% of the sales price, or, if the shares sold have been held for a minimum of ten years, 40% of the sales price. If the presumptive acquisition cost is used instead of the actual acquisition cost, any selling or other expenses are deemed to be included therein, and therefore, cannot be deducted in addition to the presumptive acquisition cost.

Any losses arising from the sale of shares are primarily deductible from capital gains arising in the same year and the following five years and secondarily also from other capital income arising in the same year and the following five years.

Capital gains of individuals are tax-exempt if the total sales proceeds of the assets sold do not exceed EUR 1,000 in a tax year. Capital losses will not be tax deductible for individuals if the total amount of the acquisition prices of the assets sold does not exceed EUR 1,000 in a tax year.

No social security charges are payable on sale of the shares.

The applicable taxes are not withheld by the employer. You are responsible for paying the tax yourself. You must declare your capital gain/loss on your annual tax return to be filed usually in April following the year when the shares were sold.
